Brief Guide to Prague

Looking at the map, we can find that Prague really is a focal point, the heart and centre of the continent. However, Prague is not only the geographical heart of Europe, but also a place where, for centuries, different nations have been mixing, and cultures have been merging, influencing each other. Those who walk through Prague walk through the history of Europe and its cultural richness

For more than one thousand and one hundred years, visitors to Prague have been trying to give Prague a suitable name: stone Prague, golden Prague, magic Prague, hundred-spired Prague, Prague, mother of all cities... Each of these names highlights one of its many attractive features.

Hundred-spired Prague – as this name suggests, Prague is the city of architectural treasures. It might be impossible to count all the large and small spires of Prague's churches, palaces and houses. This city has been developing for more than 1,000 years, and over the years, many memorable buildings have been built. Despite having often been destroyed over time, Prague has managed to preserve its grand architectural legacy. It excels at Romanesque monuments and is known as a world-renowned work of Gothic city planning. The re-Catholicization of the country was accompanied by a remarkable development of the Baroque style. Hundreds of artists, mainly from Italy and Germany, gave Prague its Baroque appearance, which the city has preserved ever since. The countenance of Prague reflects every cultural period and every artistic style.

The name Magic Prague is known worldwide. Doctor Faust's Prague, Golem's Prague - this name was given to the city after the mythical clay giant symbolising Jewish magic. Rudolphian Prague - named after Emperor Rudolf II, who contributed greatly to its reputation. This emperor of alchemists, the admirer of occultism and Maecenas, gathered in Prague one of the biggest collections of art of that time. The remains of this collection, which are still preserved in Prague, are remarkable. However, the emperor left behind something that cannot be taken from the city - the atmosphere of mystery.

THE CZU CAMPUS

The Conference takes place on the campus of the Czech University of Life Sciences Prague (CZU). The campus is about 20 20-minute drive from the city centre. The campus is situated in the northwest suburb of Prague, in the city district Suchdol. It is a quiet garden suburb with a few small, protected areas nearby. Due to its location, Prague is a very good starting point for field excursions across Bohemia.

The modern campus offers a concentration of all services and facilities in one place. There are six Faculties with classrooms and lecture theatres, two congress halls, students' dormitories, Menza (a student restaurant), restaurants and bars, parking, etc. All these facilities are within 10 minutes on foot around the campus. There are 2 hotels in the immediate vicinity of the campus.
